

Environmental Policy Statement

Our commitment

Grainger & Worrall Ltd is a specialist, full-service supplier of cast and machined aluminium components for the automotive, aerospace, energy and associated industries. The Company recognises that concern for the environment is an integral and fundamental part of its business. Our commitment is to work in a manner that minimises our impact on the environment through a journey of continuous improvement so that in future we operate in a way that does not contribute to climate change.

In order for us to fulfil our commitment we will:

- Reduce greenhouse gases and support that reduction throughout our supply chain
- Use energy efficiently by reducing scrap, eliminating wastage and ensuring we are continually reviewing our performance.
- Continue to work to a plan of decarbonisation
- Protect water quality and minimise unnecessary consumption
- Focus on improving air quality
- Responsibly manage the full life cycle of our products and chemicals
- Sustainably control our resources to preserve them for future generations
- Reduce the waste we produce and minimise what is sent to landfill
- Re-use existing materials or products
- Prevent the unnecessary release of noise
- Comply with all local national and legal requirements so far as reasonably practicable

Our vision

- To create world class industry leading environmental culture
- To engage all partners to raise environmental concerns as a basis for improvement

To deliver our commitment and vision we will:

- Set and frequently review objectives and targets
- Be transparent in all that we do disclosing through our environmental social governance reporting

Responsibility

- The Board is ultimately responsible for environmental performance on its premises
- Senior leadership will lead by example and manage the day-to-day environmental impact
- All partners have a legal responsibility for environmental protection
- All contractors and visitors must follow the commitments in this policy and good working practices
